Re Item V

Reasoned statement under Rule 66.2(a)(ii) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

- 1 Reference is made to the following documents:
D1: US-A-5 946 451 (SOEKER WILFRIED HELMUT) 31 August 1999 (1999-08-31)
D2: US-B1-6 252 676 (AZIMA FARIBORZ ET AL) 26 June 2001 (2001-06-26)
D3: EP-A-1 139 654 (cited in the application)
- 2 Document D1 discloses (figs 4, 5 and col. 5, lines 45 - col. 6, lines 5) a method for rendering input data simultaneously into output data in a first output format and in a second output format comprising the steps of:
 - *defining a plurality of bands (20) constituting the output data;
 - *for each specific band out of the bands:
 - *generating by a renderer (2, 3) from the input data first output data for the specific band in the first output format (conversion into a display list);
 - *generating (2, 16), from the first output data, second output data for the specific band in the second output format (contone map).

Thus, the method of claim is not new.

The statements made to the method claim 1 apply to the system, computer program and computer readable medium according to claims 8, 11 and 12 respectively.

The dependent claims 2 - 5 and 7 merely define straightforward embodiments and possibilities from which the skilled person would select, in accordance with circumstances, without the exercise of inventive skill, in order to solve the problem posed. Most of these additional features are disclosed or suggested by the prior art on hand. Moreover the description does not make clear what specific advantages these additional features might imply. Therefore these claims add nothing inventive.

International application No. PCT/EP03/50035

- 3 The subject-matter of dependent claim 6 is related to adjoining two specific bands in order to ensure a correct transition between both bands for the data in the second output format which is not known from the available prior art.
